

Aging Innovation Fund 2018 Call for Ideas & Grant Proposal Process

PURPOSE

In December 2015, the Cascade Corporation established the Aging Innovation Fund (AIF) at the Community Foundation of South Jersey (CFSJ) to influence solutions that improve the wellness and quality of life of older adults. Although they exited the senior living market in Cape May County, the Cascade Corporation committed to giving back to the community they served. During the first three years, the fund will invest a total of $450,000 in creative solutions with an emphasis on achieving one or more of the following goals:

- To help older adults remain active, healthy and engaged in their communities
- To offer unique support services that improve homebased, community based and long term care
- To protect the rights of the older adults
- To prevent abuse, neglect and exploitation of older adults

In February 2016, CFSJ convened a group of regional and statewide experts in aging to design a grant program that would identify and/or build upon new ideas and approaches to achieve these goals. The AIF will support up to three projects per year (up to $50,000 per project per year) to measurably improve the overall wellness and quality of life of older adults in the short and long term. Coalitions, organizations, and communities that are seeking to achieve the same goals should consider participating in this grant opportunity. The AIF will offer unrestricted grants for planning, implementation, and the matching of other resources to implement the project.

ELIGIBILITY

The following categories of organizations are eligible to apply:

- Nonprofit organizations whose missions are related to supporting or advancing the wellness and quality of life of older adults.
- Nonprofit organizations who partner with for-profit businesses.
- National or regional organizations working with South Jersey communities to achieve these goals.
- South Jersey communities that have included the wellness and quality of life for older adult residents in a community plan OR wish to do so with a planning grant from AIF (involving local community based organizations and/or community groups).
- Community coalitions that have integrated the wellness and quality of life for older adult residents into their efforts (ex. New Jersey Health Initiatives Communities Moving to Action coalitions).
- Area offices on aging (in collaboration with local community based organizations and/or community groups).

- Policy and advocacy organizations (in collaboration with local community based organizations and/or community groups).
- Higher education institutions (in collaboration with local community based organizations and/or community groups).

To receive funding from the AIF, the lead applicant organization must be a nonprofit 501(c)(3) organization. Also, the lead nonprofit organization may submit more than one Call For Ideas proposal for consideration.
